For weak, sore, or diseased lungs, coughs and colds, hemorrhages, hay fever, lagrippe, Asthma or any bronchial affection it stands unrivaled. Price 50c and $1.11. Trial bottle free. Sold and guaranteed by A. M. Hughes, Louisa, Ky.

Obituary.

Died, at his home at Mossy, W. Va., Roy, the bright little boy of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cyrus. Roy was born Aug. 1, 1903, died Jan. 28, 1909. He was only sick a few days. His death was unexpected to his many friends here.

We would say to the bereaved parents, sisters and brothers, to mourn not for little Ray, but prepare to meet him in heaven where sickness pain nor death never enter.

He was brought back to his old Kentucky home and laid to rest in the family grave yard at Smoky Valley.

Death chooses a shining mark. Ray is gone from us to come no more, but we know we shall see him again in heaven.

Although it was hard that one whose future seemed so bright, God thought it best to take him home.

A Friend.

Quite a deplorable accident occurred yesterday, when Miss Jettie, the 15-years-old daughter of J. D. Caudill, while gathering eggs in the hay loft, was precipitated to the ground, on account of a plank breaking. She fell across a wagon seriously injuring herself internally. She was unconscious most all day, the physicians using every means to restore her. She partially regained consciousness in the evening. It is feared she is dangerously injured.

Burned out of house and home. This was literally true last Friday night of John Thompson, of Johns creek, this county. He is the son of Elder H. H. Thompson, of Mouth Card. He and wife and children barely escaped in their night clothes. Their furniture, a lot of canned goods and everything was burned. The neighbors furnished some clothing. It seems to us that here's a case where neighbors and friends can apply the Golden Rule worthily.

Hillard, Ohio. I have lived in Franklin county, Ohio over twelve months and my Kentucky friends want to know what I think of the country. I will try to give them my idea through the columns of the NEWS.

This is a fine farming country and there are lots of up-to-date farmers here. The people here are generally kind to Kentuckians when they find that we are trying to treat them right.

A certain young man from Kentucky left here the other day without paying his board bill, and the people are talking very much about him. Of course there are honest Kentuckians out here, and such conduct as that of this young man makes the people afraid of those who are honest, for they don't know who to trust. There are lots of good people in this part of Ohio and they will treat a fellow white if they get the same treatment.

Farmers here have begun plowing for corn.

E. Prince and family took dinner with A. Diley Sunday.

Lonna Sagraves was at A. A. Diles Sunday.

Uncle John Walker, who has been ill for some time is some better.

A Well Wisher.

Happy Bird' Flying High.

The Jett's Creek correspondent to the Breathitt County News, published at Jackson, who sails under the red and blue plume of "Happy Bird," is certainly "going some" in the following gem:

The correspondence of Reuben Ruggles of Athol, in which he would prefer a pair of snow-white trunks (feminine gender) be lovingly wound around his neck causes the girls of Jett's Creek to blush, or have a temporary erythema and caloric effluence of the physiognomy reticulated by one's perceptiveness of the sensorium when in a predicament of unequilibrium from a sense of shame, anger or other cause, eventuating in a paresis of the vasomotor filaments of the fatal capillaries, whereby being divested of their elasticity, they are suffused with a radiance emanating from an intimated precordia.

There now, Reuben, come back to everyday words and quit yer kidin'.

Happy Bird.

Quite a wonderful man lives in the Oil City country. He doesn't know his letters, can't make a figure, yet he can work in fractions as fast as you can give them out to him. You may buy 70 or 80 hogs from him at 34 cents and he can tell you how much you owe him before you can figure it out and count money faster than a banker. He solves the hardest problems, but cannot tell you how he does it. Read him a newspaper, from beginning to end, and he will repeat it word for word after you have finished it. Ask him what happened six or eight years ago on that day and he will tell you in a few minutes.—Glasgow Times.

Home Circle Column.

A Column Dedicated To Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle.

The strength of a nation is in the intelligent and well ordered homes of the people.

o o o

The woman who has a home and keeps it well has no narrow sphere in life. In the home is the hope of the nation and the church.

o o o

How much of your success do you owe to your wife? It is only just to own this fact before her day by day. It will make her happy and keep her youthful.

o o o

If you scar a sappling the tree will tell the tale; so if a child is subjected to improper influence and example, the scars will remain and his life will be blighted by it.

o o o

THE WOMAN WHO GIVES ADVICE. She is a very wearisome woman. She does not wait until you ask for it she thinks you need it. She has it in store and if you happen along she pours it out on you.

It usually happens, too, that she pours it more freely where you can't see it, don't want it, wouldn't have it, and wish she would keep still.

She has sharp eyes as a rule. They are not bright and pretty, but restless little beads, that look as if they were threaded with a pin point which pricks at every glance.

If she looks it is to criticize; if she listens, it is to suggest; if she speaks it is to relate her experience and explain her way.

You meekly suggest that you would also like to come by your knowledge through experience; but she seems to be doubtful if so unimportant individual will ever have any of the happenings that teach. She means well, oh, bless her, yes, but she is very "wearing" to mortals who come in her way, and have mislaid their wings.

IN THE HOME.

We are not angels only men and women, and we share the imperfection of manhood. We are not perfect apples. We are speckled apples all of us. We do not care how deep and sweet and tender and accordant love may render the home life, it cannot but happen that in the close contact in the everyday openness and disclosures of the home, our bad points will come out. No family is made up of perfectly straight sticks, but crooked ones. And when they are piled together in the closeness of home life the crookedness will appear. The man and woman married the most utterly, married along the whole line of their natures, must yet find some point where there is not complete contact. There is dissimilarity of education. Before marriage we can pour forth perfect harmony, they must bring their instincts into perfect tune.

Before two hearts can perfectly strike together, they must be keyed to the same note, that cannot be altogether before marriage. The exact real self does not appear in courtship. It is the best self, the self-dressed in the best wardrobe of manners and the sentiment and sacrifice that appears then. After marriage the self puts on its common habits for what it is. Then each real self must adjust itself to reach real self; then must each bear and forbear, then must any incompatibility be met and mastered by mutual charity while suffereth long and is kind, which never falleth.

THE GRANDEST WOMEN.

When you want to get your grandest idea of a queen, you do not think of Catherine of Russia, or of Anne of England, or Marie Theresa of Germany, but when you want to get your grandest idea of a queen you think of the plain woman who sits at the table opposite your father or walked with him arm in arm down life's pathway; sometimes to the Thanksgiving banquet, sometimes to the grave, but always together—soothing your petty griefs, correcting your childish waywardness, joining in your infantile sports, listening to your evening prayers, tolling for you with needle or at the spinning wheel and on cold nights wrapping you up snug and warm. And then at last on that day when she lay in the back room dying, and you saw her take those thin hands with which she had toiled for you so long, and put them together in a dying prayer that commended you to the God whom she had taught you to trust—oh, she was the queen. The chariots of God came down to fetch her, and as she went all heaven rose up. You cannot think of her now without

The Lucky "9."

John O'Sullivan, of Winchester, takes a very optimistic view of the business outlook for 1909. Here is what he says:

"The 9s in American history have always been characterized by prosperity," he said, "and if the traditions are correct, 1909 will be no exception. Running over the history you will find the panic of '37 was succeeded by the great boom of '39. In '49 gold was found in California. Pike's Peak was discovered in '59 and the mines of Colorado opened. In '69 the era of reconstruction set in and the prosperity that followed has never been equaled. In '79 came another readjustment of industrial conditions, particularly in the South, and great prosperity followed. In '89 came the boom that collapsed in '92. In '99 the opening up of the Klondike and the revival of trade after the Spanish war brought another boom. It looks like as if history will repeat itself in 1909."
